

A New Tune

by Charles Broderick illustrated by Lyle Miller

Core Decodable 93

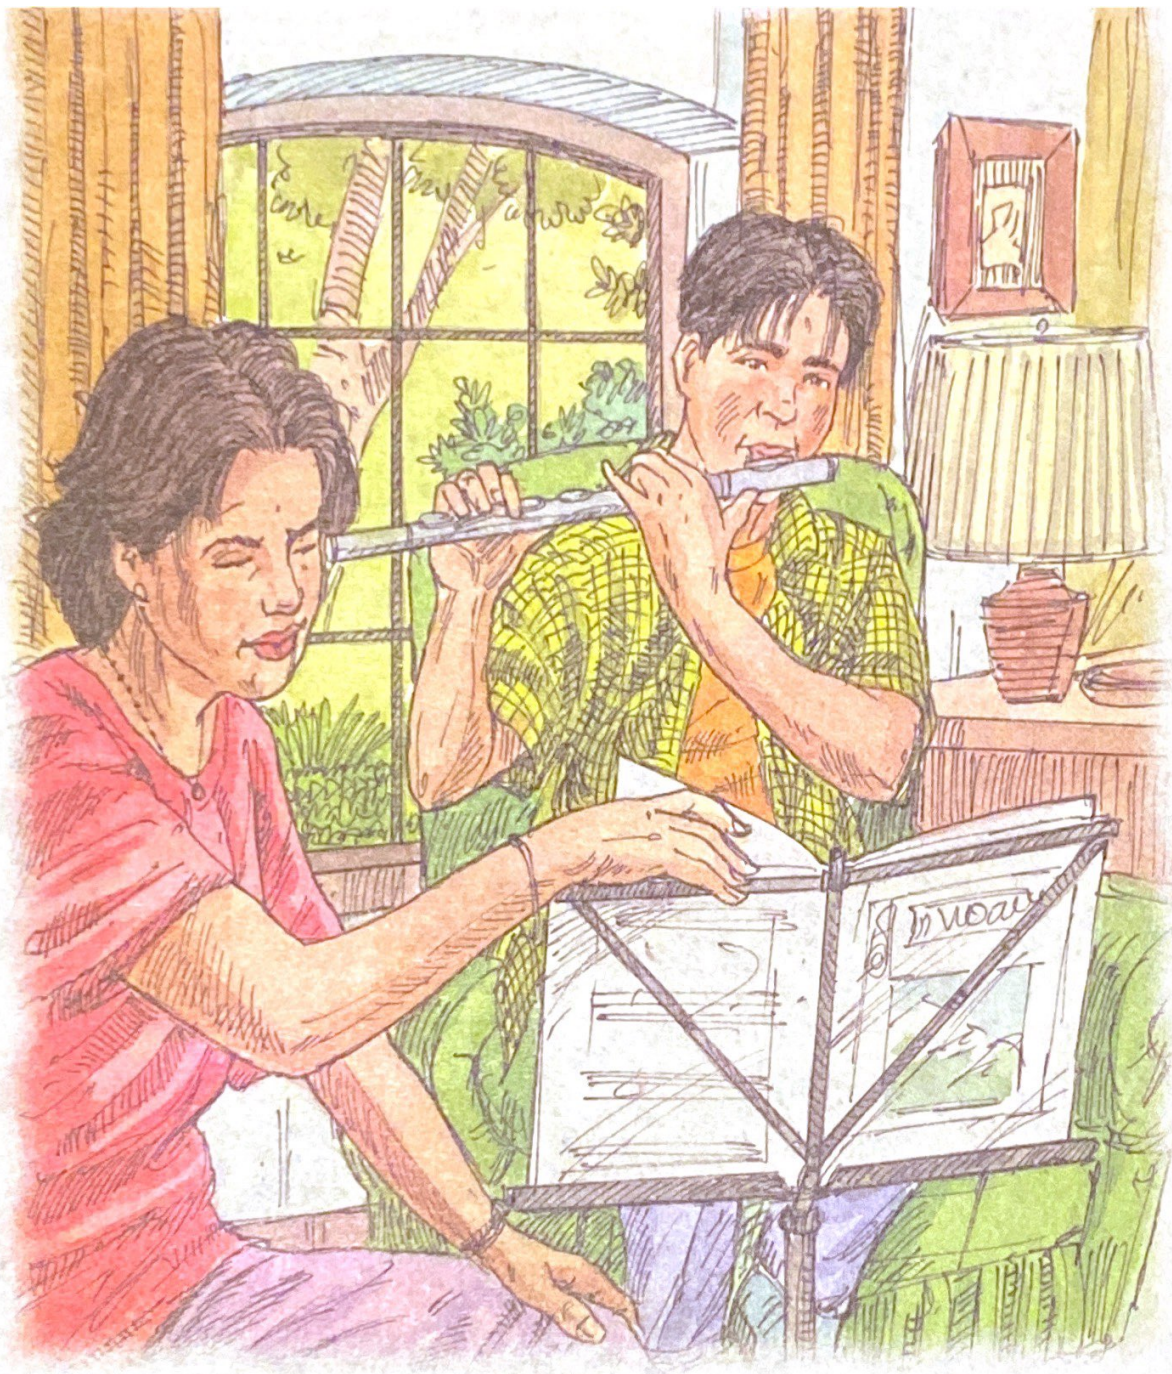

Bothell, WA • Chicago, IL • Columbus, OH • New York, NY

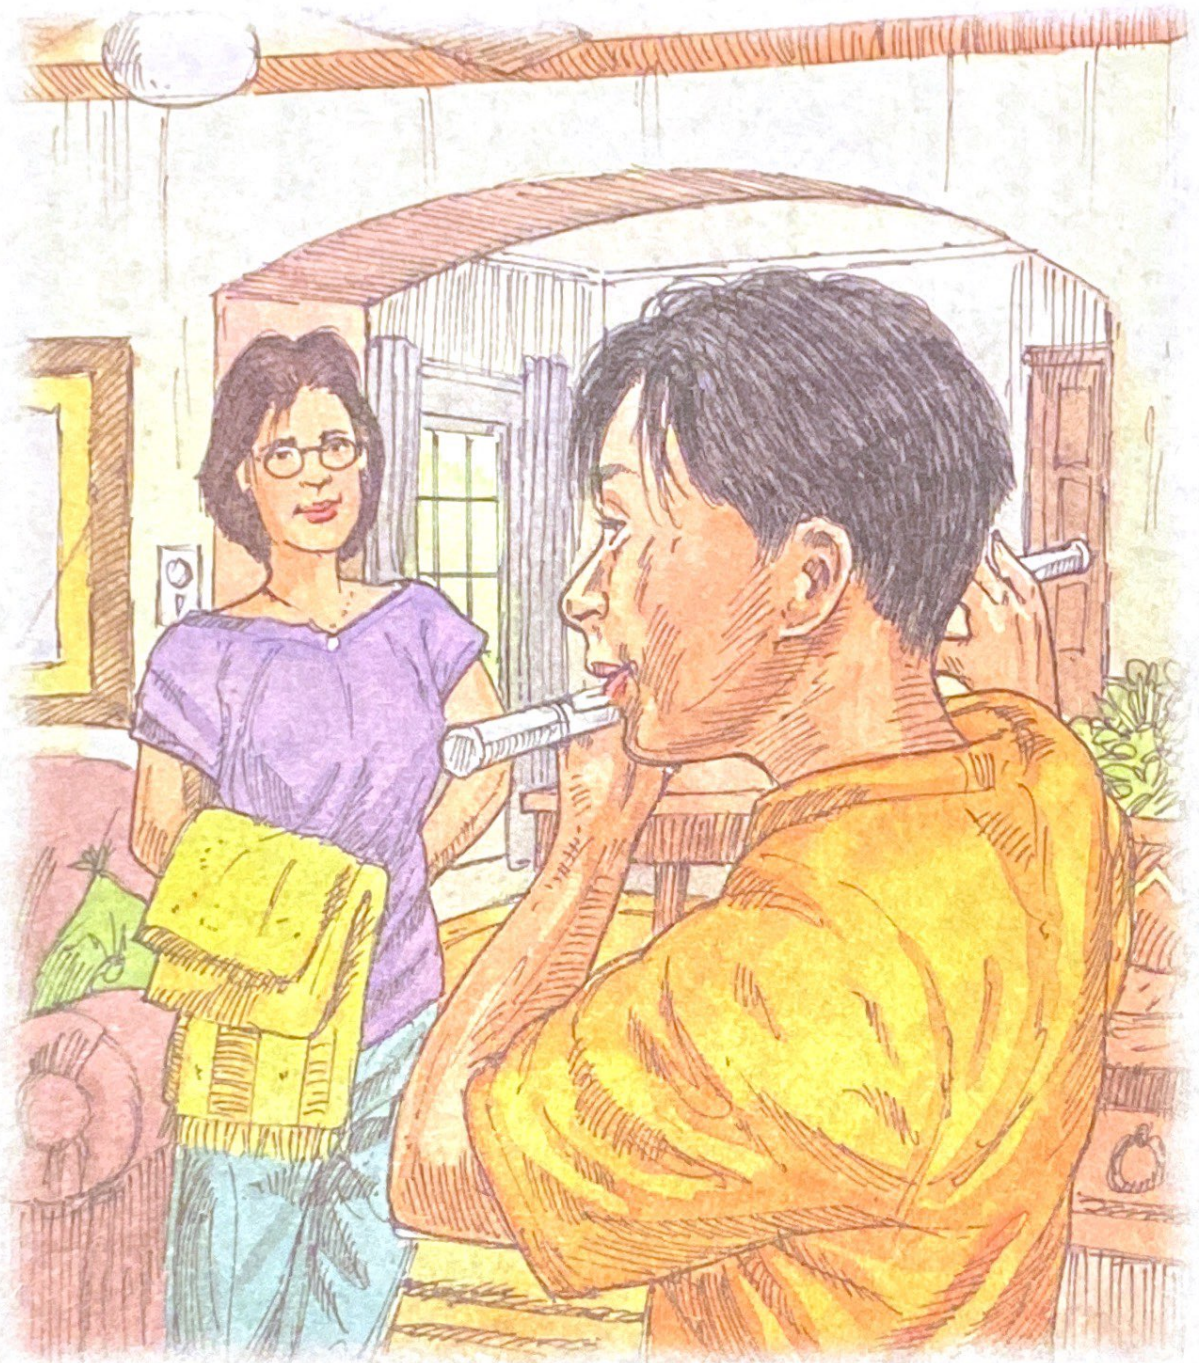

Drew played his flute.
He played in his room every day.

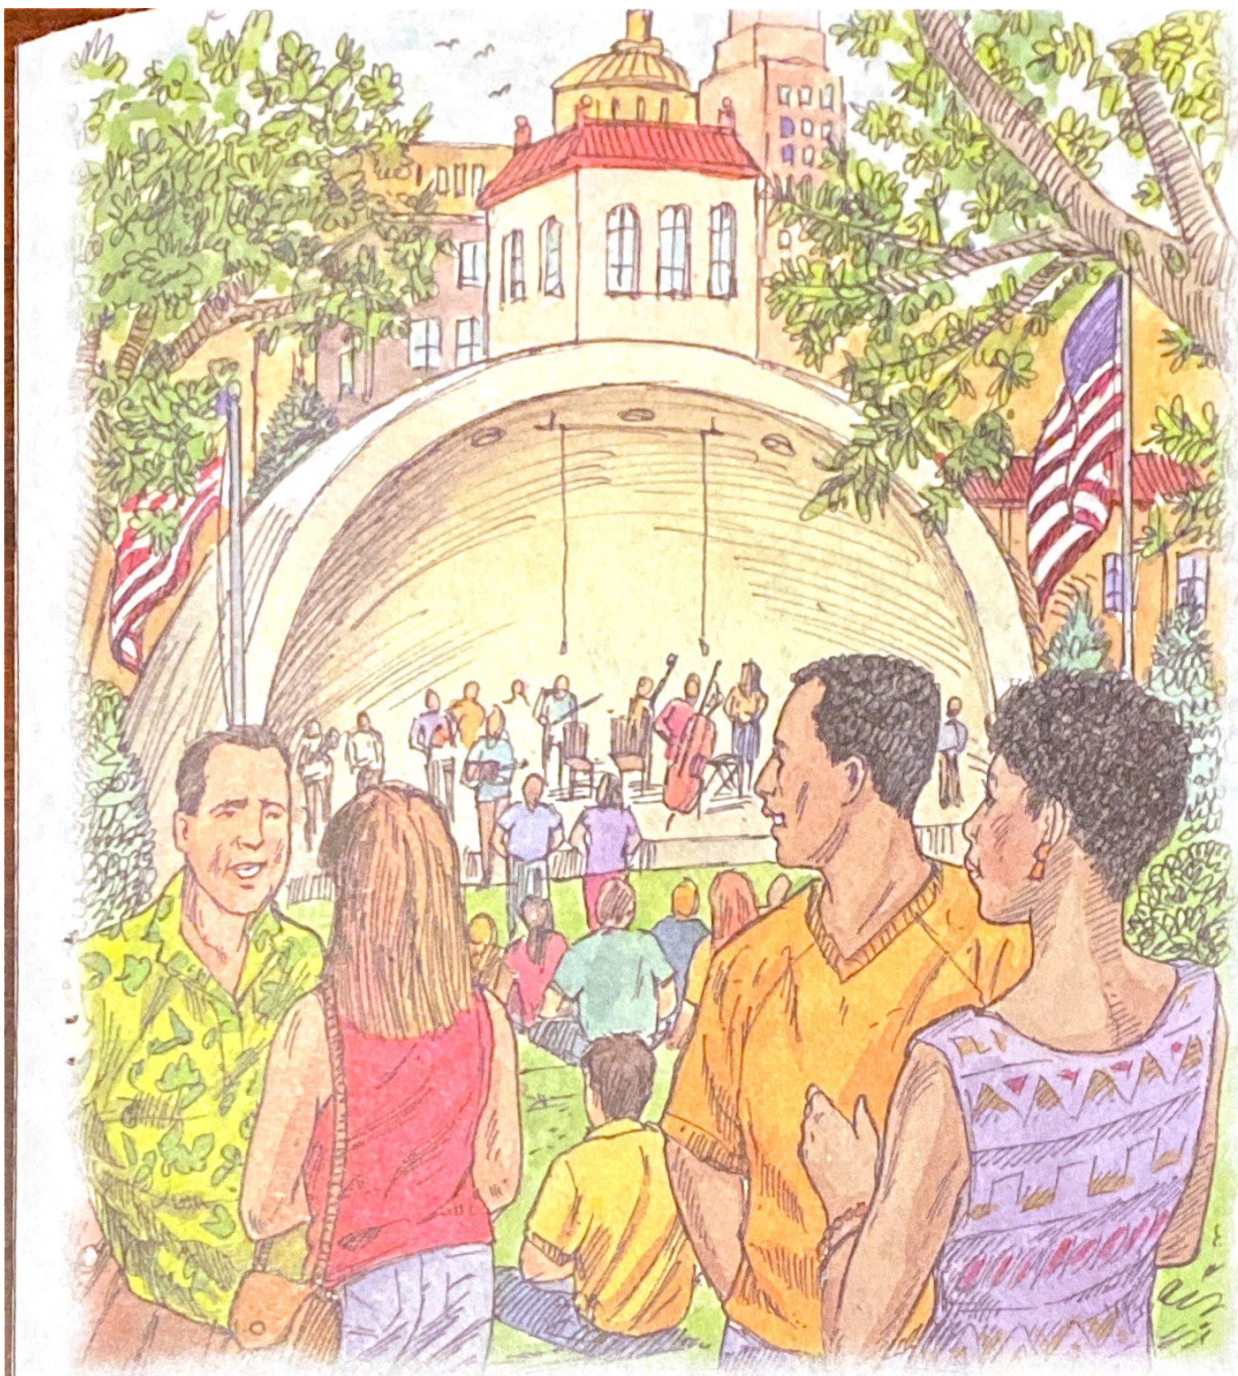

Drew played a new tune.
The new tune was very hard.
He did not play it very well.

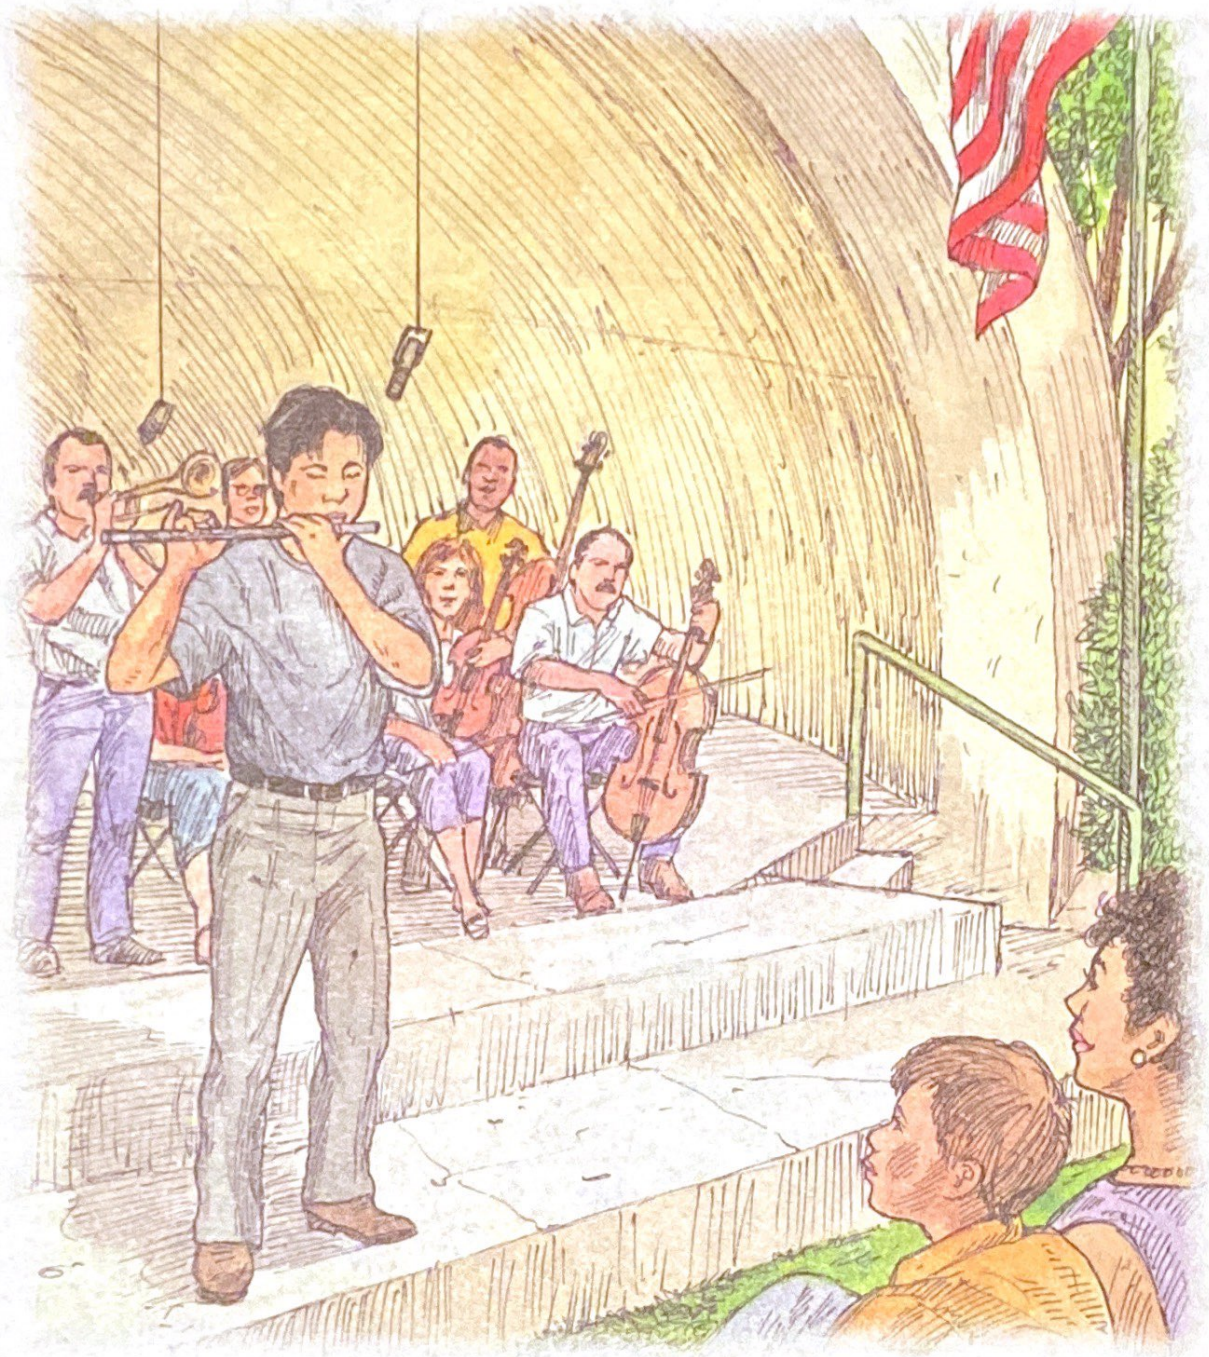

Drew played and played the tune.
He blew and blew.
Drew had to get it right.

Drew's fingers hurt!
But he still played his flute.
He played every day in June.

It was a very hot summer day.
Flags flew high.
It was time for Drew to play.

Drew had his flute.

Drew played the new tune.

He played the tune very well!